Description

18H x 16W Inches Heartland Series swing panels feature hinges that enable them to swing open. T-slot channels incorporated in the enclosure offer flexible mounting options, allowing the panels to be positioned at any depth from the front to the back. These swing panels serve as an additional protective barrier, safeguarding sensitive equipment and operators from potential hazards. They offer an optimal solution for mounting displays, controls, indication lights, and various other electrical components.

Application

Suitable for heavy industrial; commercial; and OEM applications
